Meet Lea!

Girl of the Year® Lea Clark dives into every new adventure! When her family travels to Brazil, she can't wait to see the beautiful beaches and the Amazon rainforest.

She explores what's in her heart.

Lea loves taking photographs, and animals are her favorite subject. At her hut on the beach she can find all kinds of creatures—furry, feathered, and even slimy—to photograph. She's a little nervous about swimming in the ocean, until she digs deep and realizes she has the courage it takes to try new things. Even snorkeling and surfing!

Lea keeps a blog so she can share her adventures with her friends back home.

Today I was hanging out in the hammock when I spotted a toucan perched on a tree branch, Lea writes, sitting in the cool shade of the hut. Tomorrow we're going into the rainforest. I hope we see a sloth, but who knows what we'll find?

Lea is born for adventure.

Whenever Lea is someplace new, she whips out her camera. “No matter where I am, I always feel at home when I’m taking photos,” she says. “And photos let me take my adventure home with me.”

Read more about Lea in her books from American Girl.

BUILDING TIP

Do you see the sharp-angled piece in this photo? It can come loose if you bump it, so be careful when you attach the red piece on top.
Easy does it!

BUILDING TIP

When you attach the loft bed to the ceiling, press on the red side bricks—not the purple middle pieces—to make sure it's snapped firmly onto the prongs. Lea will love this bed!

BUILDING TIP

Here's the secret to building the hammock: hold the fabric piece in one hand and the rod piece in the other. Start on the inside of the hammock, and push the rod through to the outside of the hole. Once the rod has poked through, place the cap on that end to hold it.

Repeat on the other side with the second rod and the other cap pieces. Now your hammock is ready to be hung!

BUILDING TIP

On the canopy, stretch the fabric really tight to make it fit on top of the brown clips. That looks great!
