SPONSOR'S CLASSROOM ACTIVITIES

163-40-104 02/20/00/000 0000
To help your child develop a sense of how stories work, read the story "Spangoli's Birthday" together with your child.

- 1. Turn down the sound so that you and your child can talk about Spangoli's storybook.
- 2. Flip through the pages and name the objects and the characters in the pictures.
- 3. Look at the different words on the page. Point to the letters that make up the words. Find all the words that begin with the initial letter of your child's name.
- 4. Count how many times certain words are found in the story. For example, how many times do you find the word birthday in the story?
- 5. Connect the story to your child's experiences. For example, does your child celebrate his or her birthday with a party like Spangoli's?

LEARNING EXPERIENCES

163-40-104 02/20/00/000 0000
To promote your child's creativity as well as language and literacy skills, create a birthday party prep box to encourage pretend play.

- 1. Put out a variety of props to encourage your child to role play the birthday party theme. Some prep suggestions include:
 - Food and food preparation
 - Plastic toy food
 - Plastic plates
 - Plastic cutlery and coffee/tea set
 - Play dough
 - Party supplies
 - Birthday plates and cups
 - Wrapped presents (empty boxes)
 - Birthday decorations
 - Birthday materials (candles)
 - Kids gear
 - Empty box of baby shoes and footwear
 - Plastic utensils and spoons
 - Birthday accessories
 - Paper umbrellas
 - Birthday cards and envelopes
 - Birthday hats

- Each learning center section contains information on many activities you can do with your child.
